Product description

Here we can admire on of the rare situations when the knight is carved in full. This piece is beyound any doubt one of the most innovative knight presentation. The prancing stallion makes us think about Bucephalus - fearless horse of Alexander the Great. The chessboard no 5+ or 6 would fit the best for this model. What's more the set is provided in two additional queens (one of each colour). The black pieces were made of precious ebony wood while the material used for their white equivalents is boxwood. All pieces are individually secured against mechanical damage during the shipment.
